THE REIGN OF AUTUMN.

The rust is over the red of the clover,
The green is under the gray,
And down the hollow the fleet-winged swallow
Is flying away and away.

Fled are the roses, dead are the roses,
The glow and the glory done,
And down the hollow the fleet-winged swallow
Flying the way o' the sun.

In place of summer, a dread new-comer
His solemn state renews;
A crimson splendor instead of the tender
Daisy, and the darling dews.

But, oh, the sweetness, the full completeness,
That under his reign are born!
Russet and yellow in apples mellow,
And wheat, and millet, and corn.

His frosts so hoary touch with glory
Maple, and oak, and thorn;
And rising and falling, his winds are calling,
Like a hunter through his horn.

No thrifty sower, but just a mower
That comes when the day is done,
With warmth a beaming and gold a gleaming
Like sunset after the sun.

And while fair weather and frost together
Color the wood so gay,
We must remember that chill December
Has turned his steps this way.

And say, as we gather in the house together
And pile the logs on the hearth,
Help us to follow the lithe little swallow,
Even to the end of the earth.

THE LOST RING.

BY A RETIRED ATTORNEY.

"Mr. Docket?"

"Yes, Madam."

It was an elderly woman upon whose brow care had furrowed many a wrinkle. She was dressed in homely garments, and the struggle between penury and neatness which they evinced would have been an interesting study for a philosopher. Her eyes were red, as though she had been weeping; and when she seated herself by my desk, the pent up current of grief burst afresh.

"What is the matter, my good woman? You seem to be in deep distress," I remarked in the most encouraging tone I could command.

"I am, sir. They say the Lord is near to them that are suffering, and I am sure he ought to be near me."

"I dare say he is, ma'am. But you know that afflictions are sent to us for our good, and we ought never repine at the discipline of life, however severe it may sometimes seem to us."

I had heard an excellent sermon the day before, for it was Monday, on Tribulation, and I was just in the frame of mind for giving others more excellent advice, which, perhaps, I should have been very unwilling to follow if the dark waves of trouble had rolled over me.

"I try to bear it as well as I can," she replied, wiping away her tears with the corner of her apron.

"I don't know as I am acquainted with you, ma'am," I suggested, for the purpose of changing the topic and bringing her to business.

"I don't know as you are," she replied; and she proceeded to give me a very long and very succinct account of her previous history, beginning back some forty years, when she was born among the White Mountains in New Hampshire.

I tried to check her, but it was no use. I was as patient as the case would admit, and mindful of the duty we owe to the weak, the infirm and the ignorant; but my patience was sorely tried. I will not punish the reader with the long, fine spun story she told me, for a few lines will suffice to inform him of the material facts.

She was a widow—her name was Marche. She had an only son, Philip, who was employed in an insurance office, and received three dollars a week for his services. He was a good boy and loved his mother, as a son should. Upon their united earnings they lived very comfortably in an obscure street, where they hired two rooms. Mrs. Marche's catalogue of her son's virtues was certainly very edifying. He never spent a cent upon himself, never went out nights, and attended church forenoon and afternoon.

An evil day had come. On the Saturday three weeks preceding, Mr. Carman, the President of the insurance company, as he declared, had sent Philip with a valuable diamond ring to the jeweler's to have the stone reset. On inquiry the ring was found not to have reached its destination. The jeweler had never seen it. To make the case more complicated, the boy denied having received the ring. Mr. Carman had never sent him on any such errand.

The boy had been arrested on the charge of stealing the ring, and was now confined in jail. Mr. Carman was ready to swear he delivered the valuable article into the hands of the boy, with explicit directions as to where he should carry it and what should be done with it.

It looked like a bad case. The poor woman was in the saddest distress. She was sure that her darling boy would not steal. I pitied her and promised to do what I could for her son.

When she had gone I called upon Mr. Carman. I found that he was one of those dogmatic old fellows, who are never in a wrong, who find it impossible to err, even by design, or to make a mistake. I tried to argue the point with him, but he would not say much. He told me the story; was sure he sent it by the boy and nobody else.

I ventured to suggest that he might have been mistaken; that he had sent the ring by some other person.

"Do you take me for a simpleton, sir? Do you think I don't know what I am about?" he exclaimed, bestowing upon me a look of withering contempt. "I sent the ring with the boy, sir. The boy has stolen it. Nothing more need be said, sir." And he turned to the newspaper he had been reading.

I was not much pleased with the interview. I was highly vexed at the haughty bearing of the fellow; and I confess that my pique rendered me tenfold more zealous in my endeavors to clear my youthful client.

I visited Philip at the jail. He was very sad on his mother's account; on his own he seemed not to care. A more frank, open hearted boy I never saw.—He told his story; and though I questioned him pretty severely, he was consistent to the last.

I made the case my own, and worked unceasingly, as it seemed to me then, for the overthrow of the haughty President of the insurance company, as much as for the salvation of the widow and her interesting son. I visited more than a dozen jewelry shops that afternoon and the next morning; with what result the reader shall learn in the details of the trial, which came on the next day.

Philip was duly arraigned, and his poor mother sat by his side, weeping and sobbing like a child as the case proceeded.

Mr. Carman, with majestic dignity, stepped upon the stand. He told the story I have before detailed, and was turned over to me for cross-examination. I could see that he was nettled, for he certainly could see no mercy in my face.

"Mr. Carman, are you willing to swear that you gave the ring to the boy?"

"Certainly I am," he replied, vexed and angry, for he had answered the same question a dozen times in the course of the cross-examination.

"I beg your honor to notice particularly the words of this witness," I remarked to the Court.

His honor testified readily that he had noticed them, as a matter of course; he had them in his minutes; and he rather snubbed me for pressing so respectable a witness in so severe a manner.

"Now, Mr. Carman, may I beg you to examine this ring?" and I handed him the one he had lost.

"It is mine," he replied, with evident astonishment.

"You identify the ring, do you sir?"

"I do."

"That is all, sir. May it please your Honor, I shall bring but one witness for the defence. Will Mr. Graham take the stand?"

Mr. Graham took the stand. I showed him the ring.

"Have you ever seen this ring before?"

"I have."

"State to the Court what you know about it."

Mr. Graham proceeded to state that he was a jeweler; that the ring was left at his shop three weeks before by an elderly gentleman, to have the stone reset.

"Is the gentleman in the court room?" I asked.

"He is; there he sits;" and he pointed to Mr. Carman.

The Court was astonished; the officers were astonished; and Mr. Carman was overwhelmed with confusion. He acknowledged his error when there was no possibility of concealing it. He asked to correct his testimony, and did so.

Mr. Carman was a very absent-minded man; and the solution of the whole matter is that he forgot all the circumstances connected with the ring. He intended to have sent Philip to the jeweler's with it, and actually called him for that purpose, but his attention was attracted to something else, and he thought no more about it. On his way home to dinner, while his mind was absorbed by an important business operation, he had left the ring at Mr. Graham's. The impression that he had given the ring to Philip was fastened upon his mind. He remembered the fact of calling him, and his intention became a reality.

When thus cornered he amused the judges with several other instances of absent mindedness of which he had been guilty, in this manner explaining the mistake he had made.

I must do him the justice to say that he made Philip ample amends in the shape of a hundred dollar bill for the trouble he had caused him; but I believe that Mr. Carman hated me to the day of his death. I can only say I should not have punished him so severely if he had treated me like a gentleman.

He has nine children, ninety-one grandchildren, and fifty-six great grandchildren, in all one hundred and fifty-six. He is eighty years of age, weighs about two hundred pounds, and taken all together is about as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

LEE'S MISERABLES.

BY JOHN ESTEN COOKE.

They called themselves "Lee's Miserables."

That was a grim piece of humor, was it not, reader? And the name had a somewhat curious origin. Victor Hugo's work, Les Miserables, had been translated and published by a house in Richmond; the soldiers, in the great dearth of reading matter, had seized upon it; and thus, by a strange chance, the tragic story of the great French writer had become known to the soldiers in the trenches. Everywhere you might see the gaunt figures in their tattered jackets, bending over the dingy pamphlets, "Fautaine," "Cosette," "Marius," or "St. Denis,"—and the woes of "Jean Valjean," the galley slave, found an echo in the hearts of these brave soldiers, immured in the trenches and fettered by duty to their muskets or their cannon.

Singular fortune of a writer! Happy M. Hugo! Your fancies crossed the ocean, and, translated into another tongue, whiled away the dreary hours of the old soldiers of Lee, at Petersburg!

Thus, that history of "The Wretched" was the pabulum of the South in 1864; and as the French title had been retained on the backs of the pamphlets, the soldiers, little familiar with the Gallic pronunciation, called the book "Lee's Miserables!" Then another step was taken. It was no longer the book, but themselves whom they referred to by that name. The old veterans of the army thenceforth laughed at their miseries, and dubbed themselves grimly, "Lee's Miserables!"

The sobriquet was gloomy, and there was something tragic in the employment of it; but it was applicable. Like most popular terms, it expressed the exact thought in the mind of every one—coined the situation into a phrase.

Truly, they were "The Wretched,"—the soldiers of the army of Northern Virginia, in the fall and winter of 1864.—They had a quarter of a pound of rancid "Nassau bacon"—from New England—for daily rations of meat. The handful of flour, or corn-meal, which they received, was musty. Coffee and sugar were doled out as a luxury, now and then only; and the microscopic ration became a jest to those who looked at it. A little "grease" and corn bread—the grease rancid, and the bread musty—these were the food of the army.

Their clothes, blankets, and shoes were no better—even worse. Only at long intervals could the Government issue new ones to them. Thus the army was in tatters. The old clothes hung on the men like scarecrows. Their gray jackets were in rags, and did not keep out the chilly wind sweeping over the frozen fields.—Their old blankets were in shreds, and gave them little warmth when they wrapped themselves up in them, shivering in the long cold nights. The old shoes, patched and yawning, had served in many a march and battle—and now allowed the naked sole to touch the hard and frosty ground.

Happy the man with a new blanket!—Proud the possessor of a whole roundabout! What millionaire or favorite child of fortune passes yonder—the owner of an unpatched pair of shoes?

Such were the rations and clothing of the army at that epoch:—rancid grease, musty meal, tattered jackets, and worn-out shoes. And these were the fortunate ones! Whole divisions often went without bread even, for two whole days.—Thousand had no jackets, no blankets, and no shoes. Gaunt forms, in ragged old shirts and torn pantaloons only, clutched the musket. At night they huddled together for warmth by the fire in the trenches. When they charged, their naked feet left blood-marks on the abatis through which they went at the enemy.

That is not an exaggeration, reader.—These facts are of record.

And that was a part only. It was not only famine and hardship which they underwent, but the incessant combats—and mortal tedium—of the trenches. Ah! the trenches! Those words summed up a whole volume of suffering. No longer fighting in open field, no longer winter-quarters, with power to range; no longer freedom, fresh air, healthful movement—the trenches!

Here, cooped up and hampered at every turn, they fought through all those long months of the dark autumn and winter of 1864. They were no longer men, but machines loading and firing the musket and the cannon. Burrowing in their holes, and subterranean covered-ways, they crouched in the darkness, rose at the sound of coming battle, manned the breastworks, or trained the cannon—day after day, week after week, month after month, they were there in the trenches at their grim work: and some fiat of Destiny seemed to have chained them there to battle forever! At midnight, as at noon, they were at their posts. In the darkness, dusky figures could be seen swinging the sponge-staff, swabbing the cannon, driving home the charge. In the starlight, the moonlight, or the gloom lit by by the red glare, those figures, resembling phantoms, were seen marshalled behind the breastworks to repel the coming assault. Silence had fled from the trenches—the crash of musketry and the bellow of artillery had replaced it. That seemed never to cease. The men were rocked to sleep by it. They slept on in the dark trenches, though the mortar-shells rose, described their flaming curves, and, bursting, rained jagged fragments of iron upon them.—And to many that was their last sleep. The iron tore them in their tattered blankets. They rose gasping, and streaming with blood. Then they staggered and fell; when you passed by, you saw a something lying on the ground, covered with the old blanket. It was one of "Lee's Miserables," killed last night by the mortars, and gone to answer "Here!" before the Master.

The trenches!—ah! the trenches!—Were you in them, reader? Thousands will tell you more of them than I can.—There, an historic army was guarding the capital of an historic nation—the great nation of Virginia—and how they guarded it! In hunger, and cold, and nakedness, they guarded it still. In the bright days and the dark, they stood at their posts unmoved. In the black night-watches as by day—toward morning, as at evening—they stood, clutching the musket, peering out into the pitchy darkness; or lay, dozing around the grim cannon, in the embrasures. Hunger, and cold, and wounds, and the whispering voice of Despair, had no effect on them. The mortal tedium left them patient. When you saw the gaunt faces contract, and tears flow, it was because they had received some letter, saying that their wives and children were starving. Many could not endure that. It made them forget all. Torn with anguish, and unable to obtain furloughs for a day even, they went home without leave—and civilians called them deserters. Could such men be shot—men who had fought like heroes, and only committed this breach of discipline that they might feed their starving children?" And after all, it was not desertion that chiefly reduced Lee's strength. It was battle which cut down the army—wounds and exposure which thinned its ranks.—But thin as they were, and ever growing thinner, the old veterans who remained by the flag of such glorious memories, were as defiant in this dark winter of 1864 as they had been in the summer days of 1862 and 1863.

Army of Northern Virginia!—old soldiers of Lee, who fought beside your captain until your frames were wasted, and you were truly his "wretched" ones—you are greater to me in your wretchedness, more splendid in your rags, than the Old Guard of Napoleon, or the three hundred of Thermopylæ. Neither famine, nor nakedness, nor suffering, could break your spirit. You were tattered and half-starved; your forms were war-worn; but you still had faith in Lee, and the great cause which you bore aloft on the points of your bayonets. You did not shrink in the last hour—the hour of supreme trial. You meant to follow Lee to the last. If you ever doubted the result, you had resolved, at least, on one thing—to clutch the musket, to the end, and die in harness!

Is that extravagance—and is that picture of the great army of Northern Virginia overdrawn? Did they or did they not fight to the end? Answer! Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor, Charles City, every spot around Petersburg where they closed in death-grapple with the swarming enemy:—Answer! winter of '65,—bleak spring of '65,—terrible days of the great retreat when hunted down and driven to bay like animals, they fought from Five Forks to Appomattox Court House—fought staggering, starving and falling—but defiant to thelast!

Bearded men were seen crying on the ninth of April, 1865. But it was surrender which wrung their hearts, and brought tears to the grim faces.

Grant's cannon had only made "Lee's Miserables" cheer and laugh.—From Mohus, or the Last Days of Lee and his Paladins, by John Esten Cooke.

LET NO MAN ASK FOR LEISURE.—The most fallacious ideas prevail respecting leisure. People are always saying to themselves: "I would do this and I would do that if I had leisure." Now, there is no condition in which the chance of doing any good is less than in the condition of leisure. The man fully employed may be able to gratify his good dispositions by improving himself or his neighbors, or serving the public in some useful way; but the man who has his time to dispose of as he pleases has but a poor chance, indeed, of doing so. To do increases the capacity of doing; and it is far less difficult for a man who is in a habitual course of exertion, to exert himself a little more for an extra purpose, than for the man who does little or nothing to put himself into motion for the same end. There is a reluctance in all things to be set a-going; but when that is got over, then everything goes sweetly enough. Just so it is with the idle man. In losing that habit he loses the power of doing; but a man who is busy about some regular employment for a proper length of time every day, can very easily do something else during the remaining hour: the recreation of the weary man is apt to be busier than the perpetual leisure of the idle. As he walks through the world his hands hang unmuffled and ready by his side, and he can sometimes do more by a single touch in passing than a vacant man is likely to do in a twelvemonth.

Let no man cry for leisure in order to do anything. Let him rather pray that he may never have leisure. If he really wishes to do any good thing, he will always find time for it by properly arranging his other employments.

How Seth Hawkins Stole the Old Lady's Night Gown.

The Boston News gives us the following, as having occurred in one of the villages of the old Bay State, within the recollection of the writer. We do not know when we have enjoyed so hearty a laugh as on reading this incident in the life of Seth Hawkins.

Sunday night was the season which Seth chose to do his weekly devours, as Mrs. Hornby would say, and his road to neighbor Jones', whose daughter Sally was the object of his particular hope, lay across three long miles of territory, stumpy as an old woman's mouth, and as irreclaimable as a prodigal son gone away for the third time.

One all sufficiently dark night, unheeding wind and weather, as gallant and spruce a lover as ever straddled a stump, Seth, in best "bib and tucker" and dickey, and all that, started upon his accustomed weekly pilgrimage to the shrine of Sally Jones—a sweet girl by the way, as strawberries and cream are sweet.

Seth knew every land mark, if he could see it; but the night was very dark, and in a little while he became confused in his reckoning, and taking the light which gleamed from farmer Jones' cottage in the distance for a guide, he pushed boldly on, regardless of intermediate difficulties, surging occasionally to the right or left, as some obstructions arose in his path, until he ran stem on, as a sailor would say, to a huge stump, and rolled incontinenly on the other side.

He gathered himself up as best he could, shook himself to ascertain that no bones were broken, and then re-started on his mission of love, his ardor somewhat dampened by feeling the cold night wind playing fantastic jests around his body, denoting that the concussion had breached his "Oh—fie for shame," and that the seven and six penny cassimeres were no more to be the delight of his eyes in contemplation of their artistic excellence.

He knew to a considerable extent the damage sustained, but soon gaining the bouse, his first glance was over his person, to ascertain if decency would be violated by an unwonted display; but seeing nothing, and trusting to the voluminous proportions of his coat for concealment, he felt reassured and took his seat in a proffered chair by the fire. Whilst conversing with the farmer about the weather, and with the dame upon the matter of cheese, he glanced at Sally, and saw with painful surprise, that she was looking anxiously, and somewhat strangely, toward a portion of his dress. She averted her eyes as she caught his glance: but again catching her eye upon him, he was induced to turn his eye in the same direction, and saw, good heavens! was it his shirt? oozing out of a six inch aperture in the inside of one of his inexpressibilities! He immediately changed his position, and from that moment was on nettles. Was he making more revelations by the change? He watched his first opportunity to push the garment in a little. Could he succeed in hiding it, it would relieve his embarrassment. Again he watched his chance, and again stowed away the linen. It seemed interminable, like the doctor's tape worm, and the more he worked it, the more there seemed left.

In the meantime, his conversation took the hue of agony, and his answers bore as much relation to the questions asked, as the first line of the Songs of Solomon does to the melancholy burden of "Old Marm Pettingill."

At last, with one desperate thrust, the whole disappeared, and he cast a triumphant glance toward Sally. One look sufficed to show that she had comprehended the whole, and with the greatest effort was struggling to prevent a laugh. Meeting his glance, she could contain herself no longer, but screaming with accumulated fun, she fled from the room; and poor Seth, unable to endure this last turn of his agony, seized his hat, and dashed madly from the house, clearing the stumps like a racer in the dark, and reaching home he hardly knew when or how.

As soon as he was gone, Mrs. Jones looked about for a clean night gown that she had out for service on the back of the chair on which Seth had sat. She was positive she had taken it out, but where upon earth it was she couldn't conceive.

"Sally!" cried the old lady from the door, "have you seen my night gown?"

"Yes'm," echoed her voice, as if in the last stage of suffocation—"yes'm, Seth Hawkins wore it home!" It was unfortunately the case, and poor Seth had stowed it away in the crevasse of his pants. It was returned the next day, with an apology, and he subsequently married Sally; but for many years after, if an article of any description was missing, of apparel or otherwise, the first suggestion was, that Seth Hawkins had stowed it away in his trowsers.

Seth Hawkins is now a prominent and influential merchant in the city of Boston, and often relates the story himself, for the amusement of his young friends.

..Only four hundred souls survive the earthquake of Ecuador, out of forty thousand, who were swallowed up in an instant by the subsidence of the whole district, which is now covered by a lake.

..A fellow who ran away from Boston to escape the importunity of his numerous creditors, is now Treasurer of the State of South Carolina.

THE FREEMAN.

EBENSBURG, PA.,

THURSDAY, : : : : : Nov. 5, 1868.

THE ELECTION.

Up to the time of going to press on Wednesday afternoon none but the most meagre returns of Tuesday's election have reached us, and they only from districts surrounding or within easy access of our town. In Ebensburg borough and Cambria, Munster, Carroll and one or two other townships, there have been Democratic gains, but Blacklick, Jackson and a number of other districts are reported to have given still heavier gains to the Radicals, and as things now look Cambria county has done no better, if she did so well, for the Democracy as at the October election.

The only other information we can gain is that Pennsylvania has gone Republican by a largely increased majority over the previous election, but it is impossible to determine at so early an hour whether this is true or not. Philadelphia, it is alleged, has given a Radical majority variously stated at from four to fifteen hundred. If this be true there is little doubt but what the "jig is up." From other States no information has reached us, and we don't know that we should feel any better if we had. If we thought we could have given our Democratic friends more cheering news we should have delayed our paper, but just now the signs are not very propitious, and they might get worse instead of better.

THE CAMBRIA FREEMAN.

Nearly two years have elapsed since we launched the CAMBRIA FREEMAN on the wave of public opinion, and we now submit to our numerous readers whether our promises as journalists have not been fully performed, and whether their expectations as patrons have not been entirely realized.

We have already, without any canvassing, secured for the FREEMAN the largest and best subscription list ever accorded to any newspaper published in Cambria county, and in return for this confidence and support we have given and are now giving more reading matter than has ever been, or is now, given by any paper in the county.

We have constantly labored with all our zeal for the success of Democratic principles and the men who advocate and sustain them. We believe now, as firmly as we ever believed, that the ultimate salvation of our country depends upon the integrity of the Democratic organization, and so believing, we have labored, earnestly but honestly, to combat anything that threatened defeat or demoralization in our ranks.

And now that the election is over, with all its mighty consequences of good or evil to the American people, it is our duty to guard faithfully their rights and their interests during the rule of the incoming administration. In performing this duty we shall be fair but fearless. We shall be "willing to praise but not afraid to blame."

We do not know why as good a news paper may not be published here as anywhere else, and we know we can make the FREEMAN as good as the best. We have the promise of a regular correspondence from Washington and Harrisburg during the sittings of Congress and the Legislature; Nasby, Jr., will continue to instruct and amuse our readers through the medium of his weekly letters from the business emporium of our county, and we are promised regular correspondence from other points in and out of the county. MacShane comes in this week and promises to enlist with us as a regular skirmisher all the time. That sweet poetess, "Linnet," will still grace our columns with her choicest effusions, and our poetical and literary departments will be under the most careful supervision. Everything to instruct and amuse—nothing to contaminate or vitiate the taste—shall appear in our columns.

Our local department, we flatter ourselves, has always been the medium of everything worth knowing that has transpired within the limits of Cambria and adjoining counties, and it shall continue to be so.

We intend that the FREEMAN shall be, as it has been, a paper worthy to be perused by young and old of both sexes. In short, we mean that the FREEMAN shall be, during the approaching long winter evenings, not only a pleasant companion to our farmers, mechanics and laborers, but a fitting instructor to their sons and daughters. Indeed, we purpose having a Juvenile Department for our young readers, with riddles, enigmas, etc., to amuse and edify them.

We purpose, in fact, to improve as far as in us lies the appearance and contents of the FREEMAN, and we trust that our friends will increase our usefulness by extending our circulation. Let every subscriber to the FREEMAN make an effort to add one more good name to our list, and then we shall be able to make the best paper in Cambria county—a better one.

And now let us say to those of our subscribers who are still in arrears, and especially to those who have not paid us anything since our paper was started, that we are determined to collect every cent that can be collected at the close of the present volume, and that at the rate of $2.50 per year. We wish this to be viewed as a fair notice of this fact, for if we don't make every subscriber then indebted to us for one year or more pay up, it will be out of the question for us to make the improvements in new types, etc., which we contemplate, and which our paper stands so much in need of. Ten more weeks will conclude the second volume of the FREEMAN, and after that time nothing less than $2 50 will suffice for one year or $5.00 for two years then due from such as do not heed this notice. We will then place all accounts for subscriptions, advertising and job work which remain unpaid in the hands of a collector, and those who are indebted will have to stand the additional expense.

..It has been decided by the Attorney General of the United States that brandy distilled from apples, grapes and peaches, is exempt from the special tax, as provided for in the recent law. Commissioner Rollins will, in a few days, promulgate this decision by an official order.

..Finely powdered borax thrown along the base boards of rooms and in the corners, will effectually rid a house of cockroaches. The remedy will never fail, but a second application may be necessary. Make a note of this, readers; we have the best of testimony to its efficacy.

..A grief-stricken father in Iowa had the body of his little daughter, who had died and been buried in his absence, exhumed that he might take a last look at her loved face. The body was found turned upon its face in the coffin, with both little hands clutched in the hair—evidently buried alive.

..Thursday, Nov. 26th, has been recommended by Gov. Geary, of Pennsylvania, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. The President and a number of Governors had previously designated that day, and no doubt it will now be adopted by those Governors who have not yet issued their proclamations.

..A remarkable cavern has been recently discovered in Salisbury, a township in the northwestern corner of Connecticut, which promises, when fully explored, to take rank among the natural wonders of our country. It has been partly explored, and found to contain many beautiful chambers, adorned with snowy stalactites and gypsum formations.

..Mrs. Sarah Clayton, widow of the late Joseph Clayton, who died on the 3d instant, in Baltimore County, Md., at the advanced age of eighty-six years and four months, was the mother of thirteen children, grandmother of fifty-six grandchildren, great grandmother of fifty-three great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandmother of six great-great-grandchildren.

..A speculator in Meriden, Ct., fearing a crisis some years ago, turned his property over to his wife, and she refused to give it up. Even now, after her death, by the provisions of her will he can only have the income of the property and that only so long as he remains a widower, the property in the case of his marriage going to one of the churches of that place.

..As a lady residing at Hoosac Falls, New York, was removing some dresses from a clothes closet in her house, a few evenings ago, a large black snake dropped from the folds of one of the dresses, and wound its horrible and slimy length around her leg, raised its head and thrust out its bifurcated tongue. The lady was almost paralyzed with fright. Her outcries soon brought other members of the family, who dispatched the monster.

..The latest story of the earthquake comes by way of St. Louis, from the Pacific ocean, where a trading vessel has found a whole archipelago, whose islands are diamonds and emeralds. One island, 70 by 15 miles, is a particular fine specimen of emerald, being without flaw. As the smallest diamond in the lot weighed 200 tons, and they couldn't break any off, the crew unfortunately brought no specimens home with them.

..Week before last a remarkable and successful blast was made at the Richmond, Va., Granite Quarry, now owned by a company in Philadelphia. One entire block of clear, beautiful granite, measuring 100 feet long, 23 feet thick, 20 feet wide, was thrown out from the solid mass of the quarry. This immence block contains 46,000 cubic feet, 8,280,000 pounds, or 3,600 tons of 2,240 pounds to the ton. This is, probably, the largest stone in one piece ever quarried, either in ancient or modern times.

..A youngster in Peoria, Ill., recently, in exploring his sister's things, came across a package of letters duly tied up and laid away, being a correspondence which she was carrying on with a nice young man. He carried them down to the street, and standing on the corner, gave them away singly to the passers-by. The young lady didn't find it out until a mutual friend, also a nice young man, brought her one that her brother had thus given him.

..Rather a serious question has arisen before the registering board of the county of Rock Island, Illinois. The island itself has been ceded to the United States, and the officers do not know whether to allow the residents upon it to vote. The custom in similar cases in other States, has, we believe, been to refuse to allow those living on land over which the general government has jurisdiction to exercise the right of voting, but the Rock Island board is inclined to register the names of those whose right is in dispute.

..Thomas McCarthy, who murdered David Barry, in May last, near the village of Waterloo, Venango county, was hanged at Franklin on Thursday. This being the first execution that ever took place in Venango county, it created considerable interest, and large crowds of people collected around the jail. The execution took place within the walls, in the presence of about a score of persons. Previous to his death, McCarthy confessed his guilt, and said that he committed the crime when maddened by liquor.

..A small barn near Tapley's Brook, in Peabody, Mass., was burned on Tuesday afternoon, and three children of Mr. Byron Goodale, who, it is supposed, set the barn a fire while at play, were burned to death. Two of the children were twins (a boy and girl) five years old, and the other was a girl of three years. Their mother was attracted to the barn by their screams, but when she reached it the fire had progressed too far for her to gain admittance or to get the children out. The father was absent from town at the time.

..In 1845 John Elliott left his home and his wife, who had borne him eleven children, in Putnam county, Indiana, suddenly and in passion at some slight misunderstanding that had occurred between them. After he had been gone about two years, his wife, supposing him dead, married again. Recently Mr. Elliott returned, after an absence of twenty-six years. He had an interview with his wife, and she, without hesitation, returned to her first choice. Mr. Elliott had been to California during his absence, and acquired a fortune.

..Wm. V. Porter, of Roxbury, Me., killed a bear at noon on the 10th of September; then set a trap, and at five o'clock the same day took from it a cub; September 21st he took from his trap another bear; September 29th another, and on the 9th of October another, making four old bears and one cub that he trapped and killed in less than one month. The State and town bounty he receives is $20. He has sold the skins for $25. He obtained five gallons of oil, worth $4 per gallon, $20, giving him cash proceeds amounting to $75.

..Henry Grizzard, a butcher, jumped from the Nashville suspension bridge last Tuesday and was drowned. Cause, financial embarrasment. He leaves a wife and child. Just before making the leap he sat upon the balustrade with his feet dangling upon the inside. A boy passed by to whom he said: "Do you know people by the name of Grizzard, who keep a stall in the market house?" The boy responded in the affirmative. "Tell them I'm gone," said the man with tragic brevity, and throwing himself backward, he plunged down a hundred feet and disappeared in the water.

..On Thursday a Mrs. Krotz, residing in Baltimore, left her house, with two children locked in it, one a little girl, aged twenty months, and the other a boy, aged four years. The youngest was in a crib asleep when she left. About half an hour after, the little boy, from an upper window, gave an alarm, when the neighbors burst in the door and found the crib on fire, and nearly burnt up. The child was almost literally burnt to a crisp, with scarcely a piece of clothing upon it. It is supposed that the little boy by some means got hold of some matches and set fire to the bed clothing and to the crib.

A WONDERFUL PHENOMENON has recently made its appearance on Willow Creek, in Bracken county, Kentucky, and has been seen by quite a number of worthy citizens of that county. It is described as follows: The object was about six feet in hight, and walked upright. The face was at times that of a man, very pale, with curls of flame falling over his shoulders; eyes of sulphurous blue, changing constantly in size, one moment as large as a tin cup, and then gradually decreasing in size until it was almost invisible. Its arms were those of a man, and hands deadly pale. In one hand it held a torch, and in the other a sword that seemed to be about four feet in length. Its lower extremity was that of a horse, with legs well proportioned, and hoofs as those of a horse. Its tail, which was about three feet in length, was of flame, its breath was a solid sheet of fire, which vibrated with the heavings of its breast like the pendulum of a clock.

CURIOUS CALCULATION.—When the public debt of the United States caused by the rebellion was at its highest point it amounted to nearly one dollar a minute for the time that has elapsed since the creation of the world. According to generally accepted chronology it was 4,004 years from the creation to the birth of Christ that makes this the year of the world 5,872. There are 5225,600 minutes in a year of 365 days, the whole number of minutes, then since the beginning is 3,039,019,2000—in round numbers three thousand millions, which is about the number of dollars of our debt at its highest figure. Quite flattering to our national vanity of course.—Baltimore Sun.

THE EARTHQUAKE IN CALIFORNIA.—It is to be feared that California has not yet felt the last shock of earthquake. People are recalling the fact that for months previous to the late frightful earthquakes in South America, premonitory symptoms similar to those which occurred last week in California were observed there; and the opinion is frequently expressed that California has as yet only received a warning of what she may expect. But the shaking California received was certainly severe enough to satisfy any desire she might have for a good earthquake of her own. Fuller accounts than those at first sent on show that phenomena of the most appalling character were observed in different parts of the State. Fissures were made in the earth, from which dust arose in clouds, and in some places hot water and steam gushed from the ground. The bed of a creek in Alamedy county, which had been dry for months, was filled almost instantly with a large volume of water, which still continues to run. Several villages were laid in ruins, every brick building being thrown by the convulsions of the earth; and there is hardly a city or large town in the State that did not suffer injury from the shocks. It is estimated that the damage to property will reach two millions of dollars, and considering the great danger to life by the failing of houses, it seems almost miraculous that only four persons were killed.

ADVERTISING.—There is no doubt that the great lever in the extension of a business in these go-ahead times, is advertising; but the immense popularity of that celebrated remedy for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Nervous Debility, &c., Hoofland's German Bitters, is not so much owing to the fact that it has been extensively advertised, as it is to the great merit of the article.

A worthless medicine may, through publicity, acquire a short lived notoriety, but it requires the basis of true merit, in order to sustain itself for any considerable length of time. Hoofland's German Bitters has been known to the American public for more than twenty years; each day adding some new proof of its virtues and great curative properties. This Bitters is entirely free from all Alcoholic admixture.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with pure Santa Cruz Rum, orange, anise, &c., making a preparation of rare medical value. The Tonic is used for the same diseases as the Bitters; in cases where some Alcoholic Stimulus is necessary. Principal Office, 631 Arch St., Philad'a, Pa. Sold by Druggists and others, everywhere. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,

AND

Prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, Philadelphia. Their introduction into this country from Germany occurred in 1825.

THEY CURED YOUR

FATHERS AND MOTHERS,

And will cure you and your children. They are entirely different from the many preparations now in the country called Bitters or Tonics. They are no tavern preparation, or anything like one; but good, honest, reliable medicines. They are

The greatest known remedies for

Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA,

Nervous Debility,

JAUNDICE,

Diseases of the Kidneys,

ERUPTIONS OF THE SKIN,

and all Diseases arising from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fullness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil and Great Depression of Spirits.

All these indicate disease of the Liver or Digestive Organs, combined with impure blood.

Hoofland's German Bitters

is entirely vegetable and contains no liquor. It is a compound of Fluid Extracts. The Roots, Herbs, and Barks from which these extracts are made are gathered in Germany. All the medicinal virtues are extracted from them by a scientific chemist. These extracts are then forwarded to this country to be used expressly for the manufacture of these Bitters. There is no alcoholic substance of any kind used in compounding the Bitters, hence it is the only Bitters that can be used in cases where alcoholic stimulants are not advisable.

Hoofland's German Tonic

is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with PURE Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, etc. It is used for the same diseases as the Bitters, in cases where some pure alcoholic stimulus is required. You will bear in mind that these remedies are entirely different from any others advertised for the cure of the diseases named, these being scientific preparations of medicinal extracts, while the others are mere decoctions of rum in some form. The TONIC is decidedly one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public. Its taste is exquisite. It is a pleasure to take it, while its life-giving, exhilarating, and medicinal qualities have caused it to be known as the greatest of all tonics.

DEBILITY.

There is no medicine equal to Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic in cases of Debility. They impart a tone and vigor to the whole system, strengthen the appetite, cause an enjoyment of the food, enable the stomach to digest it, purify the blood, give a good, sound, healthy complexion, eradicate the yellow tinge from the eye, impart a bloom to the cheeks, and change the patient from a short-breathed, emaciated, weak, and nervous invalid, to a full-faced, stout, and vigorous person.

Weak and Delicate Children are made strong by using the Bitters or Tonic. In fact, they are Family Medicines. They can be administered with perfect safety to a child three months old, the most delicate female, or a man of ninety.

These Remedies are the best

ever known, and will cure all diseases resulting from bad blood. Keep your blood pure; keep your Liver in order; keep your digestive organs in a sound, healthy condition, by the use of these remedies, and no disease will ever assail you. The best men in the country recommend them. If years of honest reputation go for anything you must try these preparations.

FROM HON. GEO. W. WOODWARD,

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1867.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" to not an intoxicating beverage, but is a good tonic, useful in disorders of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility and want of nervous action, in the system.

Yours truly,

GEO. W. WOODWARD.

FROM HON. JAMES THOMPSON,

Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1866.

I consider Hoofland's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON.

FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

DR. JACKSON—DEAR SIR:—I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances, and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that for general debility of the system and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.

Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates street.

CAUTION.

Hoofland's German Remedies are counterfeited. The genuine have the signature of C. M. Jackson on the front of the outside wrapper of each bottle, and the name of the article blown in each bottle. All others are counterfeit.

BRIEF MENTION.—A German woman on the Emigrant train west gave birth to a child at Latrobe, on Friday last, the conductor having kindly switched off the car and summoned a physician before the interesting episode transpired. We trust the little one will never need another "switching off" during its mortal career.——Thos. H. Fagan, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Wm. A. Lane, in Hollidaysburg, in July last, was tried last week in the Blair county Court, and on Saturday the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty," the killing having been done in self-defence, as shown by the evidence.——The little "dinkey" engine used in the Altoona yard for shifting purposes ran off the track near Blair Furnace, a few days ago, went over an embankment, and after two complete rolls, brought up in a small stream which flows by. The engineer and fireman jumped off and escaped injury.——An individual named Brown, not long since in Altoona passed several forged checks, drawn on the First National Bank of Hollidaysburg, and his whereabouts is now being anxiously inquired after. He forgot the parties in Hollidaysburg, and made the checks payable to his order, but the bank on which they were drawn pronounced them forgeries, and they were returned to the parties who had received them from that ubiquitous and dishonest individual.——Two enterprising gentlemen in Altoona have commenced fitting up a Skating Rink in that prosperous young city. Won't ye local of the Vindicator have an opportunity to spread himself icically and inkically during the coming winter?——Philip Baer and his son were injured by a quantity of coal which fell upon them in a coal bank in Westmoreland county on Saturday week. The young man's injuries are of a serious nature, and may yet prove fatal.——A man engaged in slating the roof of a five story house in Greensburg, fell off, on Saturday week, but fortunately brought up on a scaffolding on the fourth story, and sustained but slight injuries.——Wm. Edwards, sixteen years old, son of a blind man in Johnstown, had the flesh torn from one of his thighs, and was otherwise seriously injured, a couple of weeks since, by being run over by a coal car in one of the Cambria Iron Company's mines.——A vein of lead ore has been found near Hollidaysburg, by Mr. James Malone, a piece of which was smelted by F. B. Isett, and found to contain about 60 per cent. of lead.——Mrs. Richard Edwards, of Cambria township, died of consumption and was interred in this place on Tuesday, and on the evening of the same day her sister, Mrs. Daniel Evans, of this borough, died of the same disease.

STRANGE INFATUATION.—A Little Girl Makes Several Attempts to Commit Arson.—Our worthy Burgess, Thos. B. Moore, Esq., some eleven months ago obtained a little girl from an orphan asylum in Philadelphia, and since then she has been employed at light work about his house. She always seemed faithful and trustworthy, but some strange infatuation, for it can scarcely be conceived that one so young could be so wickedly depraved, has induced her to attempt the destruction by fire on several occasions of Mr. Moore's residence. The first attempt, made some time during the past summer, resulted in the destruction of a quantity of valuable wearing apparel, but it was supposed that the fire was communicated by accident, and no investigation was made of the matter.—On Saturday night and Sunday last, however, no less than seven or eight attempts of like character were made to burn the premises, but fortunately none of them proved successful, although considerable damage was done to wearing apparel, bed clothing, etc. These fires were communicated, as the little girl readily admitted when accused of the crime, by thrusting lighted matches into drawers, closets and other receptacles, but her only motive for the incendiary acts which she has made known is that "the devil put her up to it." Of course she was arrested, and is now in jail. After her arrest she said there was one of the fires which had not yet been discovered; still the most rigid search failed to disclose its whereabouts, and it was not until Monday evening that smoke seen issuing from the roof of the kitchen indicated the location of the fire. The alarm was given and a large number of our citizens soon gathered, and the fire was subdued before it had burst through the roof. This fire seems to have been set in a barrel of rags in the garret, where it must have smouldered not less than twenty-four hours before manifesting itself. We have heard Mr. Moore's loss in the recent fires and the previous one estimated at $500. The little girl who committed the incendiary acts is about fifteen years old.

BETTING EXTRAORDINARY.—An eccentric bet on the election, between Mr. Wm. Marshall, Democrat, and Mr. James Bigham, Republican, of Altoona, was duly paid on Wednesday evening last, the former wheeling the latter on a common wheelbarrow from the passenger depot to his residence in East Altoona, some six or eight squares distant. The singular turn-out was preceded by a martial band, and the entire affair passed off pleasantly, and afforded no little amusement to the lookers-on of both parties.

Another singular bet is said to have been made by a Democrat and Republican in Wilmore borough, this county. If the returns of Tuesday's election show that Seymour has been elected the Republican is to spend three hours in an ice house, and if Grant should prove the victor the Democrat is to undergo a like imprisonment. Certainly an ice mode of proving a man's devotion to his political principles.

ARRESTED.—Mr. George Gurley caused the arrest, on Monday last, of a young man named Elias Edwards, whom he charged on oath with assault and battery and mayhem, in unmercifully beating him and biting one of his thumbs in a shocking manner, besides taking a piece out of one of his ears with his teeth, on election day, 13th ult. Young Edwards obtained the requisite bail for his appearance at Court to answer, and afterwards brought suit against Gurley for assault and battery, and he in turn obtained security to appear and answer for the alleged offence.

DRY TOAST.—See Rad. celebration at Hemlock, as reported in the Alleghanian.

Johnstown Letter.

WRITTEN BY PETROLEUM V. NASBY, JR.

Mr. Editor—Before this letter reaches onto the eyes and ears of your noomerous readers the elecshun will be over, and the thing will be did, and the salvashun or damnashun of this great Union may be sealed. Still we hope that if Grant is elected he will not aid a Radical Congress, in thievin', stealin', blasphemin' and murderin'.

Now the noise and the tumult of the recent battle is over, and we are rubbin' our eyes and waitin' tew see the result when the smoke cleans away, and therefore it is a good time fur reflecshun. There are some nice points to reflect onto. Why did not "loil" men vote for sich men as Mr. Linton, and listen to the council of sich men as General Coulter? Becase these men only fit tew well. "Loil" men didn't want the rebels whipped—they only wanted them skeered. They wanted the war tew last twenty years or so, till they would get all the spoons, et cetera, &c.,

Politics now-a-days are only another name for covetousness. Offis is the word, no matter what becomes of the government. Still the Radicals can't take the country tew the devil all tew once. One-half the pepil are still Democrats, who can pull back, like onto an old wheel horse, and ef the tongue chain doesn't break they can save the country by settin' their feet firmly against deviltry. There are three hundred thousand Dimocrats in Pennsylvania alone, New York and New Jersey are Dimocratic, and the majority of counties io Injiana are Dimocratic. Old Kentuck is Dimocratic, California and Oregon is Dimocratic, and Connecticut is Dimocratic in sentiment, at any rate. The minorities in other States are almost as large as the marjorities—all Dimocrats. So that they can at least help to pay the taxes, and keep the Ship of State from runnin' onto the maelstrom of utter damnashun. The other party will have the offises and the power, which is all they want, except a little nigger about elecshun times—jest enuff tew scent their political breath—and, my word for it, Old Grant will hold the devils level in Congress, and out of it. The earthquakes along the Pacific shore awoke up California and Oregon tew a sense of duty, and they will be rite, and if the Southern States get justis, they will come in strong fur Seymour and Blair—so strong, at least, as to frighten the Rump tew a sense of danger. I have hope for the better. Yesterday our little Bantie Rooster came in and crowed three times in the house, and every time he crowed, he said, "Vote for Seymour and Blair!" and as it was elecshun day I think there must be somethin' in that and the California earthquakes. I was goin' to vote for Grant, but when I hearn the admonishun of the little, cunnin animal, that is more better entitled tew a vote than any nigger. I tuck the hint and voted for Seymour. The Republicans admit that he is the best man. They turned out strong tew see him at the station here. He talked fifteen minutes tew a tremenjus multitude of people, and they all said that he was the best and smartest man ever they seed. He don't muddle his brain by smokin', and if he isn't elected his voice and wisdom may still do much tew save the country. The debt of the nation is one troublesome question, but it would be as troublesome under Dimocratic rule as under Radical plunder, and I sometimes think that it would be a blessin' in disguise if the Dimocrats are defeated. The Radicals created the debt—let 'em also have the payin' of it, or repudiate. They freed the nigger—let 'em take care onto him now. They tried to improve onto the works of the Almighty. Let 'em succeed, or proceed, onto perfecshun. God Almighty, when he made the two races, could easiiy have painted 'em one color, if he had wanted 'em to be one people. The tanners have undertook the job. They understand skin. Let 'em fiuish it, jest tew see what will become of human or inhuman, wisdom. They are goin' tew make all men "free and equal." Let 'em try it. Agin they giv' all men, black and white, a like quantity of money, of brains, ingenuity, of energy, et cetera, &c., in order tew get 'em all equal, they will hav' did a herculean job, and by the time they git all the niggers free they will have tew come North and free about one-third of the whites, in and about our manufactories, who are in terrible slavery. In short, agin they git all men "free and equal" they will have did more than man ever yet did. So I would say tew Dimocrats, "hands off!" Pay your taxes, and behold this other miracle in silence! The Radicals are skeered already. They know the size of the contract. The grand rally that was tew take place on Saturday nite—the last grand rally—was a faleyur and a fizzle. Providence interfered and shuck the rain-drops down, till nobody could stand out. The lamps wouldn't burn. Even Grant whiskey wouldn't stimulate. So the last grand rally indicates that the spirit of this new creation, of "free and equal" people, is about tew expire. Then will come confusion, and darkness, and chaos! The expiring lamps of the tanners will reflect the shadows of abandoned carpet-baggers on the gloomy horizon, in outlines characteristic as the pictur' of Barker in the last Freeman, and, finally, the consciences of the irreligious, God-forsaken hypocrites who led the people astray, by their sanctimonious whinings about the niggers, will writhe, like onto a fishin' worm, in that fire where the worms dieth not and the flames is not quenched. So mote it be.

Yours, in the wool, NASBY, JR.

ORGANIZED.—The new Board of County Commissioners organized, on Thursday last, by the induction into office of Mr. Maurice McNamara, the Commissioner chosen at the recent election. The board now consists of Messrs. John Ferguson, Blacklick township, John A. Kennedy, Carroll township, and Maurice McNamara, Conemaugh borough. The retiring Commissioner, John Campbell, Esq., was one of the most efficient, obliging and attentive officers that has ever occupied that position, and we cannot but wish him well in his future career in life. Mr. McNamara will prove equally competent, faithful and accommodating, as indeed are the other members of the board.

After the organization the new board made the following appointments: Commissioners' Clerk, Thomas Glass; Commissioners' Council, Wm. H. Seckler, Esq; Mercantile Appraiser, James M. Ross; Janitor, J. A. Fagan.

FIRE.—The steam tannery of Messrs. Jones & Evans, on the south-eastern outskirts of our borough, caught fire on the roof, on Thursday last, from sparks thrown out of the smoke stack, but fortunately the alarm was given and the flames were overcome before much damage was done to the building. Some twenty-five dollars worth of leather, however, was destroyed, and this was the principal loss.

AN ABLE EFFORT.—We are in receipt of a copy of the admirable speech of Chauncy F. Black, Esq., delivered at Uniontown, Pa., on the 28th of September last. It is one of the ablest efforts we had the pleasure of perusing or hearing during the canvass just closed, and is entirely worthy of its distinguished author.

MacShane in Pittsburgh.

DEAR FREEMAN—I've been here longer than I have had pleasure or profit. Pittsburg is dark complected—very. It is morally black—physically black—politically black. The election returns are very black—*figur*eatively speaking.

The Democrats nominated a Blackmore for Mayor, and thought the name would make his calling and election sure—but it didn't!

The Radicals got to work and convinced their tribe that their candidate was more black than Blackmore. To increase their blackness, they even put a black mark on their tickets.

Indeed, everything is taken for Grant-ed hue. They have Grant hotels, Grant restaurants, Grant oyster saloons, Grant everything.

I've been on the Grand (not Grant) Jury. It's a very laborious posish, as the late lamented Deihl would say. On Monday we were called, on Tuesday sworn, on Wednesday found a bill, on Thursday another, etc. We didn't ignore any bills, or anything else but work. We were finally discharged with thanks of U. S.

Then we had some Supreme Court. I was there too! There was much matter for argument, but everything was C. A. V., which generally means "Continued till After Vacation." In the language of John Unit, I find that it "don't pay" to carry cases up (it is all down hill from Ebensburg) to the Supreme Court.

Both theatres are running full. The old theatre, however, draws the best houses. It is under the management of the Democracy, and is well patronized. I had the pleasure of "speaking a piece" on the boards of the old theatre myself on one occasion, and brought the house down: but didn't stay for the benefit!

Jelly has been here in the character of common vouchers; but I shall give you a sketch of his eminent services on a future occasion. So, for the present, good bye.

MACSHANE.

DEATH OF PETER KINNEY, JR.—We gave a brief account last week of the lamentable death of the young man named above, but nevertheless take pleasure in giving publicity to the following notice of the sad occurrence, and the accompanying tribute to the memory of the deceased, from the pen of a much esteemed correspondent and warm personal friend of the unfortunate young man:

FAIRVIEW, Oct. 27, 1868.

DEAR FREEMAN—It becomes my painful duty to inform you of one of the most distressing occurrences which it has ever been our lot as a community to mourn over, for by it has been removed from our midst one who was loved and respected by all as few men are loved and respected in this selfish world. On Friday evening last Peter Kinney, Jr., son of our venerable and much esteemed neighbor, Peter Kinney, Sr. was returning from Johnstown, accompanied by his mother, when the team ran into a deep ditch by the road side, causing the wagon in which they were riding to upset, and the wagon box coming down bottom upwards over young Kinney and his mother, it is supposed that the former attempted to raise the box sufficient to give him room to escape from his perilous position, for when found his head was protruding from between the hind end gate and the bottom of the box, choked to death. It is conjectured that his strength gave out after getting his head through the aperture made by the dropping down of the end gate when he raised the box, and the weight of the heavy wagon, which lay partly on the box, soon put an end to his struggles. His mother, strange to tell, was uninjured when taken from under the box.

It would be useless for my humble pen to try to portray the gloom and grief this sad occurrence has brought to our entire community, for Mr. Kinney was widely known, and highly esteemed by all who did know him. Upright, honest and straightforward in all his dealings, he won the confidence of those who had business with him. Kind, obliging and affectionate in his intercourse with his fellow men, they gave him as justly his due the name of gentleman in its fullest sense. But when we come to the nearer and dearer associations of school mate and friend, we find a stronger and more tender chord snapped asunder than generally binds human beings together. His apparent study to avoid giving offence or causing pain, his manly method of advocating his avowed principles in his mild but firm manner, and his close attention to his duty, be it what it might, caused him to be regarded by us, his young associates, with feelings such as animate a brother's heart. It can be truly said that he left not one enemy on earth. It was a touching tribute to his memory and many virtues to see the immense concourse of people that followed his remains to their last resting place. He was interred in the Catholic cemetery at Johnstown yesterday, (Monday, 26th.) His mourning and bereaved friends have the deep and heartfelt sympathy of the entire community. May he rest in peace. J. M. S.

GEORGE R. BARRETT, ESQ.—From the following notice, clipped from the Evansville (Ind.) Journal of a recent date, it appears that our whilom Cambria friend holds an important position upon the great road now being constructed in the West. His friends in this region will be glad to hear of his good fortune, more especially as he deserves it:

U. S. SURVEY.—Mr. George Barrett, United States Assistant Engineer, assisted by W. A. Hiester, tarnsit man, and J. B. Doughty, with a corps of flagmen, chain bearers, etc., arrived here yesterday. They are engaged in making a careful and scientific survey of the Ohio River, in conjunction with others, from Pittsburgh to Cairo. Engineer Barrett, with his corps, left a point eleven miles above Cannelton, a month or more ago, and have made about an average of two miles a day, taking the distances, the bearings and depth of the channel, and such other observations as are necessary to attain the object aimed at. The expedition is attended by a canal boat, on which the corps live and lodge. Their operations have been much impeped recently by the rise of the river, but they made fine progress yesterday, having passed over about four miles. Another corps commenced the survey here a month or two ago, and this corps will now drop down the river and divide the coast with the other party to Cairo. The true distance from Louisville to Evansville by the channel is ascertained to be one hundred and eighty-four and one-third miles. The dia tance from Cincinnati to Louisville, we believe, is 132 miles. It had been formerly given at 160, while the distance from Louisville to this city has been reckoned at 200. Engineer Barrett will remain here with his corps for two or three days, writing up his field notes.

SUPREME COURT.—The Cambria county cases before the Supreme Court at Pittsburgh last week were disposed of as follows: C. & D. Moore vs. Clearfield Township School Directors and Pringle vs. Pringle were argued; Reade for plaintiffs in error and Johnston for defendants in error. Litzinger vs. Litzinger's heirs and Allenbaugh vs. Burk were non pros'd, while the cases of Pringle vs. Pringle and Smith et al vs. Brotherline were continued.

IS IT FAIR?——J. F. Campbell, Esq., of the Altoona Vindicator, having been prosecuted for libel by Robert W. Hunt, of Johnstown, the Alleghanian, which would be decent if it was not Radical, endeavors to prejudice the defendent's case before the jury who are to try it. We forbear comment.

THANKS.—T. Blair Moore, Esq., returns his sincere thanks to the citizens of Ebensburg who so kindly came to the rescue, on Saturday last, to save his home from destruction by the devouring element.

GRAND AND TRAVERSE JURORS.—The following persons have been drawn to serve at the ensuing term of our County Court, commencing on Monday, 7th December next:

GEN. JAMES BURNS.—A report was circulated on Radical autnority that this gentleman did not support a portion of the Democratic ticket at the October election. Nothing could be further from the truth. We know that Gen. Burns lent all his influence to the Democratic cause, and labored with his usual zeal and energy in behalf of our candidates. We say this much in sheer justice to Gen. Burns.

TOUCHING.—The autumn winds are sighing, the summer leaves are dying, the balmy days are flying, and soon we should be buying where bargains may be had for trying, where garments neat and of material and manufacture the very best, can be bought at extraordinary low prices and satisfaction guaranteed, and that place is none other than the popular Oak Clothing Hall of E. Leopold & Bro., Main street, Johnstown. Go there for your winter outfits. 2t.

AMONG the wise sayings of Josh Billings nothing is more to the point than the remark that it costs a good deal to be wise but not a cent to be happy; and if he had added that the wisest and happiest people are those who buy their reading matter, clocks, watches, jewelry, notions, sewing machines, etc., at C. T. Roberts' unrivelled emporium, he would have hit the nail on the head exactly. Friends, be wise—be happy.

HOLD UP!—Before you make up your mind as to where you will buy your winter toggery don't forget to consult the proprietor of the renowned "Star Clothing Hall," Clinton street, Johnstown, who has had many years' experience in the clothing business, knows the kind and style of apparel to buy and where to buy right, and who sells his goods at prices which are sure to induce customers to call again.

TALK ENOUGH.—Good clothes do not add anything to the character of the wearer, but they do to his appearance, and appearance does a great deal for a man in this fleeting world.—Remember this truism, and remember also that the place to buy the neatest, cheapest and most fashionable clothing is at M. Cohen & Bro.'s New York Clothing Hall, Parke's Hall, Main street, Johnstown.

REMOVED.—Our Pittsburgh friends, Mess. Gay & Welsh, have removed from the corner of Penn and Canal streets to 362 Liberty st., where they have opened a most extensive establishment for the sale of Flour, Grain, Wool, Bacon, &c. We advise friends who deal in the Iron City to give them a call.

TEACHERS' CO. INSTITUTE.—We learn from the Co. Superintendent that the Teachers' Institute for this county will be held in Ebensburg, commencing Monday, Dec. 21st.

OUR NEW FAMILY

SEWING MACHINE!!

The superior merits of the "Singer" Machines over all others, either for Family use or Manufacturing purposes, are so well established and so generally admitted, that an enumeration of their relative excellences is no longer considered necessary.

OUR NEW FAMILY MACHINE, which has been brought to perfection regardless of time, labor, or expense, is now confidently presented to the public as incomparably the BEST EWING MACHINE IN EXISTENCE.

The machine in question is SIMPLE, COMPACT, DURABLE and BEAUTIFUL. It is quiet, light running, and CAPABLE OF PERFORMING A RANGE AND VARIETY OF WORK never before attempted upon a single Machine, using either Silk, Twist, Linen or Cotton Thread, and sewing with equal facility the very finest and coarsest materials, and anything between the two extremes, in the most beautiful and substantial manner. Its attachments for Hemming, Braiding, Cording, Tucking, Quilting, Felling, Trimming, Binding, &c., are NOVEL and PRACTICAL, and have been invented and adjusted especially for this Machine.

New designs of the Unique, Useful and Popular Folding Tops and Cabinet Cases, peculiar to the Machines manufactured by this Company, have been prepared for enclosing the new Machine.

A faint idea, however, can at best be conveyed through the medium of a (necessarily) limited advertisement; and we therefore urge every person in quest of a Sewing Machine by all means to examine and test, if they can possibly do so, all the leading rival Machines before making a purchase. A selection can then be made understandingly. Branches or agencies for supplying the "Singer" Machines will be found in nearly every city and town throughout the civilized world, where Machines will be cheerfully exhibited and any information promptly furnished. Or communications may be addressed to

The Singer Manufacturing Company,
458 BROADWAY,
NEW YORK.

PHILADELPHIA OFFICE, 1106 CHESTNUT STREET.

☞C. T. ROBERTS, Agent for Ebensburg and vicinity, keeps these Machines constantly for sale at his store on High street. The public are respectfully invited to call and see them in operation. Instructions given free. Machines sold at city prices. NO FREIGHT CHARGED. Also, Singer's Needles, Oil, Silk and Cotton always on hand. [aug 26-1y.

MOST BITTERS of the present day that are loudly puffed through the newspapers as having great tonic and curative properties are vile compounds and base impositions, containing no medicinal virtues whatever, and are really very poor whisky beverages; and, instead of acting as a stimulant and tonic, have a tendency to weaken the stomach by entirely destroying the coating. The public should therefore be very cautious, and purchase none but Roback's Stomach Bitters, which have stood the test as a remedial agent for many years, and are really, as their name indicates, a stomach bitters, and not a beverage. They combine the properties of the best tonic and stimulant—a gentle laxative, an efficient anti-bilious agent and the best stomachic known to the world, and, when taken in conjunction with Roback's Blood Pills, are the safest and surest preventive against all bilious derangements, thoroughly regulating the whole system and giving tone to the digestive organs.

They are highly recommended as an invigorating tonic for mothers while nursing, increasing the flow of milk, and for convalescents, to restore the prostration which always follows long continued sickness, they are unsurpassed. No household should consider themselves safe from the ordinary maladies without these invaluable remedies. They can be obtained of any druggist. Lemmon & Murray, Agents.

Go when the morning shineth,
Go when the sun is bright;
Go in all kinds of weather,
And go with all your might—
And a little of your money—to Spence's New Gallery, Ebensburg, and have a few pictures taken. You can get any style you wish, either Photographs, Ambrotypes, Ferreotypes, or large Pictures for Frames. A good assortment of Frames and Albums for sale.—So come one and all, both great and small, and be convinced of the truth—have a picture taken, and go your way re joicing.

JUST SO.—It has been decided but is not yet known who will be the President of the United States for the next four years. It has long been decided and is known to all men that the great house-furnishing depot of Geo. Huntley stands without a rival in the quantity, quality and variety of the hardware, tinware, groceries, etc., which it contains, and which its energetic and popular proprietor is ever ready to dispose of at the most moderate figures. Huntley's establishment is one of the institutions of Ebensburg which eminently deserves success, and all our readers can subserve their own interests by aiding in the work.

CONUNDRUM.—Leopold Mayer, of the Ladies' Dress Goods and Millinery Emporium, Parke's Hall, Main street, Johnstown, asks why a certain building opposite his store is like Mother Eve, and answers: Because it was made for Adam's Express Company. Mayer also asks everybody to call at his establishment and see such a stock of dry goods, dress goods, millinery goods, notions, etc., as has never been equalled in this county. Buyers can be suited in any kind of goods they want, and especially suited in the prices at which the goods are offered.

The election is over, and soon we will know
Whether Seymour or Grant to the White House shall go;
But while the news we're awaiting let us bear this in mind,
That dry goods and dress goods, and groceries of all kind,
Are kept in endless profusion and sold very low At the popular cheap store of Shoemaker & Co.

IT has been gently whispered in our ear, and we proclaim it broadcast to all our readers, that at Thompson's store is certainly the most complete, varied and choice selection of dry goods and dress goods at present offered for sale in this community. All ages, sexes and conditions can be suited at this establishment with most superb goods at prices exceedingly low.

WISDOM IN CHUNKS.—For sympathy go to strangers, for advice go to your relatives, for favors go to real, not pretended, friends, and for the best bargains in dry goods and all other kind of goods go to R. R. Davis' store on High street, where an exceedingly handsome and superior winter stock is now open for inspection.

IF YOU did your duty at the recent election you have a right to rejoice if your candidate has been elected and no reason for self-accusation if he has been defeated. In either case we advise you to buy all the goods you need or your family needs at V. S. Barker's cheap cash store, where a magnificent stock of fall and winter goods may now be found in great profusion.

HON. D. J. MORRELL was awarded a premium for grapes at the Blair County Fair, and Miss Morrell one for basket of flowers.

L. L. LANGSTROTH'S

PATENT MOVABLE COMB BEE HIVE!

PRONOUNCED THE BEST EVER YET introduced in this County or State. Any person buying a family right can have their Bees transferred from an old box to a new one. In every instance in which this has been done the result has been entirely satisfactory, and the first take of honey has invariably paid all expenses, and frequently exceeded them. Proof of the superior merits of this invention will be found in the testimony of every man who has given it a trial, and among the number are the gentlemen named below, and their experience should induce every one interested in Bees to BUY A FAMILY RIGHT!

Henry C. Kirkpatrick, of Carroll township, took 106 pounds of surplus honey from two hives, which he sold at 35 cents per pound.

Adam Deitrich, of Carroll township, took from two hives 100 pounds of surplus honey.

James Kirkpatrick, of Chest township, took 60 pounds of surplus honey from one hive.

Jacob Kirkpatrick, of Chest township, obtained 72 pounds of surplus honey from one hive, worth not less than $21, and the right cost him only $5.

Peter Campbell from one hive obtained 36 pounds of surplus honey at one time.

☞Quite a number of similar statements, authenticated by some of the best citizens of Cambria county, could be obtained in proof of the superior merits of Langstroth's Patent Movable Comb Bee Hive.

Col. Benton and the Woolly Horse.

A Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial relates the following anecdote of the late Col. Benton:

"Next door to Shillington's, on Pennsylvania avenue, a fellow came one day, about 1850, and opened a show. He had music playing at the door—a hurdy-gurdy, or something—and across the pavement stretched a gorgeous transparency to this effect:

"THE ROCKY MOUNTAIN PONY,
Captured by
CAPT. JOHN C. FREMONT, U. S. A.,
On Exhibition Here.

"It is neither horse nor stag, nor antelope, but a marvelous combination of them all; an extraordinary nondescript, the puzzle of the faculty, the miracle of nature, the admiration of the world!"

"The day after this spectacle opened, Dr. Wallace, now of the New York Herald, a favorite of Benton, was looking over the papers in Shillington's, when Col. Benton, in his ponderous and stately way, turned the corner, coming down Four-and-a-half street. He heard the music of the hurdy-gurdy, and seeing the great painted canvass over the pavement, he folded his cloak around him and proceeded to read the inscription. As he did so his english nose began to expand; his whiskers brushed forward like gun-swabs, began to curl; his gray eyes looked famine.

Wallace, inoffensively reading the papers, was suddenly disturbed by the Colonel laying violent hands upon him.

"Here, sir! You! I want you, sir!" said he in his deepest and most dreadful tones.

He put his talons into Wallace's shoulder, lifting him almost off his feet, shoved him ahead, and poked him along into the street and up the pavement. At the door of the show he took Wallace by the nape of the coat collar and gave him a chuck up stairs.

"Stop," said the showman, "you have not paid your admission!"

"How much, sir, is it?" said Benton, terribly; "what is your fare, sir?"

"Quarter of a dollar!"

Benton produced the quarter and handed it over graciously. Then he chucked Wallace further up stairs.

"Go on, sir; I want you for a witness!"

"Stop!" said the showman below to Benton, who had pushed by him. "I must have your fare, too."

"I don't recognize you, sir," cried Benton; "go on" to Wallace.

Wallace, in great consternation to know what this meant, was propelled into the show-room, while the door-keeper followed hard after to recover his money.

There stood the woolly horse, eccentric, indeed, at his ruminations, divided from the people by a rope. Across this rope the Colonel vaulted. He fixed his talons in the nondescript's wool, with another grip upon his crupper, and, at a jerk, tore away hide, horns, and the whole outrigery of the quadruped.

"There," said the Colonel, in a scream, standing upon this hide like an eagle upon a steep, "You are an impostor, sir! You slander, in this imposition, an officer of the army. I give you twenty-four hours to leave this city. Depart!"

He slung Wallace aside, paying no more attention to him, and stalked up toward the capitol.

Shillington says that in ten minutes there wasn't a vestige of the showman left. Dray-horse, hurdy-gurdy, and canvas folded their wings like the Arabs, and silently passed away.

AN EXCITING SCENE.

The Troy (New York) Times says:—We learn from an engineer on the Hudson River Railroad the particulars of one of the most exciting scenes that probably ever occurred on the lines of that road.—On Saturday last the locomotive Arctic was standing on the track at Poughkeepsie, awaiting the arrival of the 9:45 A. M. train from this city, which it was to conduct to New York. The fireman of the engine was a recent employee of the road, and jumping off the locomotive, repaired to a neighboring saloon, where he became not drunk, but utterly wild and ungovernable with liquor.

The time for the arrival of the train was fast approaching, and the engineer becoming alarmed at the absence of his fireman, got off the engine to look for him. During his absence the fireman returned, and, influenced by the devil, mounted the engine, and, with one clutch, opened the throttle which was to set the ponderous machinery in motion.

Away the Arctic sped with the speed of the wind. For a few minutes all was consternation and excitement among the lookers on. In a moment the engine with its maniac driver was out of sight, bounding along the track at a rate utterly fearful to contemplate, and suggesting most terrible disaster to such unlucky trains as might be preceding it on the track.

What to do—how to stop the mad career of the engine—were the questions which presented themselves for solution to the minds of the railroad officials at Poughkeepsie. There was but one resource, and that was to telegraph to the station master at New Hamburg to throw open the switch at that point and run the flying locomotive off the track.

But before the agent at that place could execute the order, the Arctic came tearing along at its greatest speed, passed the station in safety, and was flying on its course like a demon of destruction. Orders were sent ahead for the track to be torn up, as it was determined that if possible no one should be harmed by the freaks of the madman but himself, neither his life nor the value of the engine being considered of the least account when the lives of so many others were depending on the result.

Fortunately the engine was stopped by causes within itself, rather than by any of the measures suggested for its overthrow and destruction. The engineer at Poughkeepsie, when he left the engine to look for his absent fireman, had both pumps at work filling the boiler with water.—The fireman either did not know how to shut off the flow of cold water, or had overlooked in his frenzy and excitement the fact that the pumps were at work, and after running about a dozen miles the pressure of water upon the boiler was so great as to cause an overflow, and fires went down, steam was exhausted, and the engine stopped for want of the necessary driving power.

MERCANTILE REFERENCE REGISTER.

THE MERCHANTS' PROTECTIVE UNION, Organized to promote and protect trade, by enabling its subscribers to attain facility and safety in the granting of credits, and the recovery of claims at all points, have to announce that they will, in September, 1868, publish in one large quarto volume:

THE MERCHANTS' PROTECTIVE UNION MERCANTILE REFERENCE REGISTER, containing, among other things, the Names, Nature of Business, Amount of Capital, Financial Standing, and Rating as to Credit, of over 400,000 of the principal merchants, traders, bankers, manufacturers, and public companies, in more than 30,000 of the cities, towns, villages, and settlements throughout the United States, their territories, and the British Provinces of North America; and embracing the most important information attainable and necessary to enable the merchant to ascertain at a glance the Capital, Character, and Degree of Credit of such of his customers as are deemed worthy of any gradation of credit, comprising, also, a NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY, containing the title, character, price, and place of publication, with full particulars relative to each journal, being a complete guide to the press of every county, in the United States.

The reports and information will be confined to those deemed worthy of some line of credit; and as the same will be based, so far as practicable, upon the written statements of the parties themselves, revised and corrected by well known and reliable legal correspondents, whose character will prove a guarantee of the correctness of the information furnished by them, it is believed that the reports will prove more truthful and complete, and, therefore, superior to, and of much greater value, than any previously issued.

By aid of the Mercantile Reference Register, business men will be enabled to ascertain at a glance, the capital and gradation of credit, as compared with financial worth, of nearly every merchant, manufacturer, trader, and banker, within the above-named territorial limits.

On or about the first of each month, subscribers will also receive the Monthly Chronicle, containing, among other things, a record of such important changes in the name and condition of firms, throughout the country, as may occur subsequent to the publication of each half-yearly volume of the Mercantile Reference Register.

Price of The Merchants' Union Mercantile Reference Register, fifty dollars, ($50,) for which it will be forwarded to any address in the United States, transportation paid.

Holders of five $10 shares of the Capital Stock, in addition to participating in the profits, will receive one copy of the Mercantile Reference Register free of charge; holders of ten shares will be entitled to two copies; and no more than ten shares of the Capital Stock will be allotted to any one applicant.

All remittances, orders, or communications relative to the book should be addressed to the Merchants' Protective Union, in the American Exchange Bank Building, No. 128 Broadway, (Box 2566,) New York.

BOOTS AND SHOES
OF MY OWN MANUFACTURE.
WHAT I MAKE I CAN WARRANT!

After an experience of more than a year in the sale of Eastern made work, during which time I have expended more than the profits in repairing rips and tares, I have determined to come back to first principles and henceforth confine myself to the manufacture of BOOTS and SHOES for Men, Youths, Ladies and Misses, and am now better prepared than ever to give entire satisfaction in my business.

I have at present in my employ a competent corps of workmen, and can say without fear of contradiction that I can turn out as neat and substantial Boots and Shoes at as MODERATE PRICES as can be made anywhere in the State. I am having Boots made of the finest French Calfskin, and within the past month or two have had orders pouring in upon me from all quarters for this kind of work. The material in these Boots is the best to be found in the market, and the workmanship, both in neatness and strength, cannot be excelled at any other establishment in the country

MY TRAIN ALWAYS ON TIME!

All work will be ready for delivery at the time promised. Weddings, visits and other interesting or important occurrences need not be postponed through any failure on my part to come to time.

Good work and moderate prices is my motto, and one trial will convince any person that the motto is well chosen.

☞Repairing of Boots and Shoes attended to promptly and in a workmanlike manner.

Thankful for past favors I feel confident that my work and prices will commend me to a continuance and increase of the same.
